

THE STAR 16/3/17 M/S 5

Next step after your SPM results

AFTER the SPM results are out, you might find yourself thinking, "What do I do after this?" Choosing the right course to study can be a difficult task when there are many career pathways and wide selection of choices, offered by various education providers.

First City University College (First City UC) can help you set the right foundation, crucial in nurturing you into becoming a well-equipped and holistic graduate to face challenges. Its teaching and learning capabilities have been proven in its 26-year experience with award-winning and sought-after graduates who have gone on to secure management positions in local and multinational companies.

Foundation and Diploma programmes with pathways

First City UC's Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences; Faculty of Design and Built Environment; and Faculty of Engineering and Computing offer university foundation programmes - Foundation in Business Administration, Foundation in Art and Design and Foundation in Engineering, Science and Technology.

Each of the one-year intensive courses lead to further specialised undergraduate degree programmes in Business, Mass Communication, Hospitality and Tourism Management, Design and Built Environment, Engineering and Computing.

During the year, you study for three semesters under modules specially-designed to acquire basic knowledge and skills you can expand on when you pursue your degree programme.

First City UC's campus expansion with enhanced facilities in the new academic block and on-campus accommodation provides students with additional lecture rooms, studios, state-of-the-art laboratories, a new IT Centre, MBA Centre, library, food court and indoor sports facilities.

These modules will help you to discover your passion and interest, after which you can opt for subjects and elective modules related to the disciplines you wish to specialise in during Semesters 2 and 3. Once you complete the foundation course you would be able to start Year 1 of the degree programme of your choice. Alternatively, you can choose to pursue diploma programmes if you already have a clear interest in specialised fields in Business, Design and Built Environment, Engineering or Computing.

After the two-year programme, you will have an advanced standing once you graduate to continue to Year 2 of a related degree programme of your choice at First City UC.

Affordable quality education

First City UC believes in making quality education accessible for all with affordable fees and financial assistance via scholarships, incentives and attractive discounts. The all-in-one package allows students to register for any of the foundation programmes at zero fees* if you commit to continue with a bachelor's degree programme. Once commencement in the degree programme starts there is a further 30% discount* off the first semester's tuition fees. This offer is on a first come, first served basis.

Diploma programme students can enjoy the Early Bird 30% waiver* off tuition fees when they register.

*Terms and conditions apply for all discounts.

March Open Day

To find out more about First City UC's various programmes, scholarships and incentives, students can visit the university college during its Open Day in March.

During this time, attentive counsellors are available to attend to enquiries every day including weekends until Mar 31.

First City UC is holding its Business and Social Sciences Week with interactive games and demonstrations on March 25 and 26.

Those interested can register to attend at the website below. Registration is also open for the April intake's foundation and diploma programmes.
